

I am in favor of keeping the FM translators as is. I listen to K-Love radio as does my whole family on FM radio. This radio station is important to my family and community. It provides "family friendly" programming with wholesome and positive entertainment that is not found on many other secular stations. Also with "listener support" we are not bombarded with tasteless and unwanted advertising that may at times be unfit for young listeners. I have no concerns about leaving the radio left on day or night for anyone in my family to hear or even my co-workers. I believe K-Love radio provides a valuable service by providing an alternative choice to some stations, many of which play the same music and advertisements all the way down the dial because they are all "OWNED" by the same company. I believe you will do an injustice to the general public to move K-Love Radio on the FM translators. Their positive and encouraging messages and wholesome values are an asset to the radio waves and help many who people financially support this station, and those who just tune in at those times of difficulty in their lives who need encouragement. In my community there would be a great void left that would leave room for nothing else but more of the same which we don't need. Where is our freedom of choice ???
